DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 27-45 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The limitations of claim 27 (lines 11-13) "wherein the ratio of the number of possible output symbols to be output to the number of input symbols in the plurality of input symbols is greater than is needed for any expected signal to noise ratio".

3. Claims 27-45 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

4. In claim 27, lines 11-13, the limitation "wherein... signal-to-noise ration" is not supported by the original disclosure.

Double Patenting

5. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA

Art Unit: 2819

1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

6. Claims 27-45 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-18 of U.S. Patent No. 6,307,487. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both claims recite the same subject matter as substantially claimed. For instance claims 27 and 28 of the application recite the same subject matter as claim 1 of 6,307,487 except for the ratio of the number of possible output symbols...for any expected signal to noise ratio. This limitation is a well-known concept in communications.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed on 11/8/2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's argues that the limitations of the "signal to noise ratio of a communication medium... is a well-known concept in communications". The Examiner agrees. The Examiner's objection goes beyond this specific limitation. Though the signal to noise ratio in communication medium is known, but to make or have or design the ratio to be greater than needed for any expected signal to noise ratio must be clearly described in the specification to help in understanding the invention and in making any artisan having working knowledge in the art to make use of the invention. Hence, the 112th rejection has been maintained.

In addition, since as admitted by Applicant, in his remarks, the signal to noise ratio is a well-known concept in the art, the added limitation in the application of "wherein the signal to noise... expected signal to noise ratio." does not distinguish the claims of the application from the claims of the cited reference, hence a double patenting rejection is appropriate.
